HOW?

How will we use the information about you?

We will use the information you provide in a manner that conforms to the Data Protection (Jersey) Law 2018.

We will endeavour to keep your information accurate and up to date and not keep it for longer than is necessary. In some instances the law sets the length of time information has to be kept. Please ask to see our retention schedule for more detail about how long we retain your information.

We may not be able to provide you with a service unless we have enough information or your permission to use that information.

We will not pass any personal data on to anyone outside of the Government of Jersey, other than those who either process information on our behalf, or because of a legal or statutory requirement, and we will only do so, where possible, after we have ensured that sufficient steps have been taken by the recipient to protect your personal data.

We will not disclose any information that you provide 'in confidence', to anyone else without your permission, except in the few situations where disclosure is required by law, or where we have good reason to believe that failing to share the information would put someone else at risk. You will be told about this unless there are exceptional reasons not to do so.

We do, on the odd occasion, process your information overseas using web services that are hosted outside the European Economic Area, for example Facebook. This is processed in the US, but has been approved by another competent supervisory authority under Article 40 of the GDPR or equivalent statutory provisions, together with binding and enforceable commitments of the controller and processor to apply the appropriate safeguards such as information security procedures and checks.

The Jèrriais Teaching Service uploads and stores students' data on the Government of Jersey Education Network and the Jèrriais Teaching Service Google Workspace. We also process data utilising social media via Facebook, Twitter and Instagram.

Reasons why we process data

- ◆ To hold the student record file, for statutory obligations, to ensure that we meet our legal obligations; to track and monitor a child's academic and pastoral progress, provide you with information you need;
- ◆ To communicate effectively with you; to provide you with information you need; carry out the service you have requested, and to monitor and improve our performance in responding to your service request;
- ◆ To communicate celebration and relevant information effectively with you; to promote the Jèrriais Teaching Service and publicise and celebrate student participation and success.

Data Sharing

At no time will personal information be passed to organisations for marketing or sales purposes or for any commercial use without prior express consent.

The Jèrriais Teaching Service may share data with Departments within the Government of Jersey, The Police, Health Services including CAMHS, MASH, MARAC and JMAPP and Social Services.

We may need to pass your information to other Government of Jersey (GOJ) departments or organisation to fulfil your request for a service. These departments are Health, Social Services, Social Security, Multi trust agencies. These departments and organisations are obliged to keep your details securely, and only use your information for the purposes of processing our service request. Please read the Appendix for a list of organisations your data may be shared with and how.

We may disclose information to other departments where it is necessary, either to comply with a legal obligation, or where permitted under other legislation. Examples of this include, but are not limited to: where the disclosure is necessary for the purposes of the prevention and/or detection of crime; for the purposes of meeting statutory obligations; or to prevent risk of harm to an individual, etc.

Jersey Eisteddfod

The Jèrriais Teaching Service may share data with Google, which provides a workspace that enables the collection and organisation of Eisteddfod entries and has been approved as a Data Processor by the Jersey Office of the Information Commissioner.

Names of entrants, as well as which schools they attend, are published within the Jersey Eisteddfod programme, which may be printed as well as shared online.

Competition results, including names of entrants and which schools they attend, are published in the Jersey Evening Post at the end of the festival.

We may need to publish your information on our website and/ or in the Jersey Evening Post for the following reasons: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Where we are required by law to publicise certain information, for example performance data. • In the interest of demonstrating a fair and transparent decision-making process. • Where we are required to provide statistical information about a group of people; although your data will be anonymised to protect your identity. • Where you have responded to a public consultation, although your comments will be anonymised to protect your identity. We will not publish any of your sensitive personal information unless there is a requirement for us to do so in order to carry out our statutory functions.	If you email us we may keep a record of your email address and a copy of the email for record keeping purposes. For security reasons we will not include any confidential information about you in any email we send to you. We would also suggest that you keep the amount of confidential information you send to us via email to a minimum or correspond with us by post. We will not share your email address or your email contents unless it is necessary for us to do so; either to fulfil your request for a service; to comply with a legal obligation, or where permitted under other legislation.	We do not record or monitor any telephone calls you make to us using recording equipment, although if you leave a message on our voicemail systems your message will be kept until we are able to return your call or make a note of your message. File notes of when and why you called may be taken for record keeping purposes. We will not pass on the content of your telephone calls, unless it is necessary for us to do so; either to fulfil your request for a service; to comply with a legal obligation, or where permitted under other legislation.

Your rights

You can ask us to stop processing your information

You have the right to request that we stop processing your personal data in relation to any of our services. However, this may cause delays or prevent us delivering a service to you. Where possible we will seek to comply with your request but we may be required to hold or process information to comply with a legal requirement.

You can withdraw your consent to the processing of your information

In the few instances when you have given your consent to process your information, you have the right to withdraw your consent to the further processing of your personal data. However, this may cause delays or prevent us delivering a service to you. We will always seek to comply with your request but we may be required to hold or process your information in order to comply with a legal requirement.

You can ask us to correct or amend your information

You have the right to challenge the accuracy of the information we hold about you and request that it is corrected where necessary. We will seek to ensure that corrections are made not only to the data that we hold but also any data held by other organisations/ parties that process data on our behalf.

You can request that the processing of your personal data is restricted

You have the right to request that we restrict the processing of your personal information. You can exercise this right in instances where you believe the information being processed is inaccurate, out of date, or there are no legitimate grounds for the processing. We will always seek to comply with your request but we may be required to continue to process your information in order to comply with a legal requirement.

You can ask us for a copy of the information we hold about you

You are legally entitled to request a list of, or a copy of any information that we hold about you. However where our records are not held in a way that easily identifies you, for example a land registry, we may not be able to provide you with a copy of your information, although we will do everything we can to comply with your request.
